1. In view of the extremely favorable reaction to the recently distributed chart, Evolution of the Institutional Structure of the Soviet State, I believe it would be well worth while to have you consider with [REDACTED] the advisability of revising the attached manuscript in order to bring it up to date. There seems to be a real need in the intelligence community for information of this sort as background to the use of the chart.

2. I recall that it was not approved in the first instance because it was already rather far out of date. At that time [REDACTED] stated that he could bring it up to date with relatively little effort, and I think this opinion on his part still stands.
